Legend: B.C. dates at top of timeline are approximate. Note that 931BC marks the division of the Kingdom into Southern Tribes (Judah and Benjamin) and Ten Northern Tribes. To avoid confusion be aware that after the division of the Kingdom in 931BC, the Southern Kingdom is most often designated in Scripture as "Judah" and the Northern Kingdom as "Israel." Finally, note that 1 Chronicles 1-9 is not identified on the timeline because these chapters are records of genealogy.

The following notes are modified from ESV notes to include the related Scriptures.

David's growing reputation fueled Saul's jealousy which soon flamed into a desire to murder David (1Sa 19:9-10).

(1) David fled from Saul in Gibeah (1Sa 19:9-10) and then from his home (1Sa 19:11-17)

(2) After Saul tried unsuccessfully to kill him in his home, he fled to Samuel at Naioth in Ramah (1Sa 19:18)

- (3), Saul sought David in Naioth of Ramah, but the Spirit saved him (1Sa 19:19-24), and he fled back to meet Jonathan in Gibeah where Jonathan sent an "arrow-gram" warning David of Saul's determination to kill him (1Sa 20:1-42)
- (4). David then fled to Ahimelech the priest at Nob where he collected food and Goliath's sword. (1Sa 21:1-9)
- (5), David briefly sought refuge in the Philistine city of Gath (1Sa 21:10-15)
- (6) David then escaped to set up headquarters at the cave of Adullam where his army swelled to 400 men. (1Sa 22:1-2)
- (7), In order to protect his parents from harm, David left them in the care of the king of Moab at Mizpah (1Sa 22:3-4)
- (8) and went to live in "the stronghold", the cave of Adullam (1Sa 22:1, 4)
- (9). Prophet Gad warns David and he went to the forest of Hereth (1Sa 22:5)
- (10) and then left to rescue nearby Keilah from some Philistine raiding parties. (1Sa 23:1-5)
- (11) When David heard that Saul was coming to Keilah, he and his 600 men fled Keilah. (1Sa 23:9-13) David relocated to the wilderness of Ziph (1Sa 23:14)
- (12) After the men of Ziph betrayed David to Saul (1Sa 23:19-20), David and his men went to live in the wilderness of Maon (1Sa 23:24-25) and narrowly escaped capture there by Saul (1Sa 23:26-28)
- (13) . Fleeing the strongholds of Engedi (1Sa 23:29) David again evaded capture by Saul and refused an opportunity to take Saul's life. (1Sa 24:1-22)
- (14) After Samuel's death (1Sa 25:1) David went to the wilderness of Paran (1Sa 25:1)
- (15). While he was there, David was again betrayed to Saul by the men of Ziph and refused another opportunity to take Saul's life. (1Sa 26:1-25)
- (16) Finally, David and his men sought refuge with Achish, the king of Gath (1Sa 27:1-12)

Pink - It is blessed to learn how David employed himself at this time; yet close searching has to be done before this can be ascertained. The Bible is no lazy man's book: much of its treasure, like the valuable minerals stored in the bowels of the earth, only yield up themselves to the diligent seeker. Compare Proverbs 2:1-5. By noting the superscriptions to the Psalms (which, with many others, we are satisfied are Divinely inspired), we discover that two of them were composed by "the sweet singer of Israel" at this time. Just as the 34th casts its welcome light upon the close of 1 Samuel 21, so Psalm 57 and 142 illuminate the opening verses of 1 Samuel 22. The underground asylum of David made an admirable closet for prayer, its very solitude being helpful for the exercise of devotion. Well did C. H. Spurgeon say, "Had David prayed as much in his palace as he did in his cave, he might never have fallen into the act which brought such misery upon his latter days." We trust the spiritual reader will, at this point, turn to and ponder Psalms 57 and 142. In them he will perceive something of the exercises of David's heart.

Hebrews 11:38 (men of whom the world was not worthy), wandering in deserts and mountains and caves and holes in the ground.

Pink - The high favorites of Heaven are sometimes to be located in queer and unexpected places. Joseph in prison, the descendants of Abraham laboring in the brick-kilns of Egypt, Daniel in the lions' den, Jonah in the great fish's belly, Paul clinging to a spar in the sea, forcibly illustrate this principle. Then let us not murmur because we do not now live in as fine a house as do some of the ungodly; our "mansions" are in Heaven!

David in Cave at Adullam

DAVID GOES FROM A COURT TO A CAVE

So - Term of conclusion - David's conclusion in light of Achish's reaction is to "get out of dodge"....quick!

David departed from there and escaped to the cave of Adullam ("justice of the people") - See #6 on the map above, noting Adullam about 5-10 miles east of Gath. The cave must have been large, to be able to house 400 men (which would soon grow to 600 - 1Sa 23:13).

Don Anderson - In our lives there are many sacred spots, special places of memory where we have met with our Lord. I'm sure for David this cave proves to be a real turning point in his life, as he comes back to the Lord and gets his heart right with Him. During that time of back-sliding he doubted God, told lies and feared man. But that time is past. Now he is in fellowship with God once more. He had come clean with God and rested in Him with greater confidence and trust than ever before. David was God's anointed king in exile. These men gathered about him, recognizing him as God's chosen one.

Roe: "The cave of Adullam is about 10 miles back toward Bethlehem up the Valley of Elah which is pock-marked with caves. It is an ideal hiding place and is very close to the border of the Philistines, where David can again flee if he has to get across the border in a hurry. It is also reasonably close to Bethlehem, his home town. So, from his perspective, he is pretty centrally located. "

Spurgeon on Adullam - where he found huge caverns capable of affording shelter and concealment for large numbers of persons. There David was in his right position, and might look for prosperity. He was in the place of separation, where believers should be found:

Brian Bell - David must have felt like Noah's Dove as is told in Gen.8:9, But the dove could find no place to set its feet...; so it returned to Noah in the ark. He reached out his hand and took the dove and brought it back to himself in the ark. 1. David unable to find rest, tossed on a sea of trials, ready to drop into the helpless waves. Then the ark presents itself, & a hand graciously reaches out & rescues! The Cave of Adullam has been discovered about 2 miles south of the scene of David's triumph over Goliath. At this place is a hill some 500' high pierced with numerous honeycombed caverns. Some of these caves are large enough to hold 200-300 men. 1. At least now he's in friendly territory. 15 miles from Bethlehem(hometown). We learn that being a person after God's own heart doesn't mean never experiencing the darkness of the cave. Rather it means being able to trust that God's light is there & that He is the God of all Hope. Here he composed Ps.142. Read all w/intro [note esp Ps 142:4 No one cares for my soul] But what happens is that this cave becomes David's Holy Tabernacle where faith could find shelter under the wings of the cherubim in the Holy of Holies. Ps.57:1 1. What looked like a cave to others was a divine sanctuary. a) David said in Ps.142:5 "You are my refuge & my portion".

and when his brothers and all his father's household heard of it, they went down there to him - Somehow David gets word to Bethlehem (about 12 miles from the cave) and his family flees, fully aware I am sure, of the irrational behavior that Saul was capable of. When jealousy and anger inflame a man's heart, the results are often disastrous and many are "burned!" Eliab, Abinadab, Shammah and sons 4, 5, 6, and 7, plus Jesse and the rest of the household, came down to the cave of Adullam to join David there.

The same brothers that stood ahead of David to receive Samuel's anointing, now lined up behind him, supporting him moment of his greatest need.

A W Pink - Ah, true love is unaffected by the outward circumstances of its object. Where the heart is genuinely knit to another, a change in his fortunes will not produce a change in its affections. David might be, in the eyes of the world, in disgrace; but that made no difference to those who loved him. He might be languishing in a cavern, but that was all the more reason why they should show their kindness and demonstrate their unswerving loyalty. Among other things, this painful trial enabled David to discover who were, and who were not, his real friends.

Paul Jorden points out, "In difficulty we don't give up but go forward because our strength is in God and not in ourselves. This is especially important when we have failed. The love and mercy of God are all-sufficient. Although we are unfaithful, God is never unfaithful. As children of the Almighty God, we can go forward with great confidence. Although life may not be all we want it to be, we know God can bring into our lives the things he wants us to experience."

Practical subjection unto to the Lord is only learned in the school of experience.

Pink states that "Though God's delays are trying to flesh and blood, nevertheless, they are ordered by perfect wisdom and infinite love. The underground asylum of David made an admirable closet for prayer, its very solitude being helpful for the exercise of devotion. Well did C. H. Spurgeon say, 'Had David prayed as much in his palace as he did in his cave, he might never have fallen into the act which brought such misery upon his latter days.' Slowly but surely our patriarch is learning to acquiesce to the appointments of God. Practical subjection unto to the Lord is only learned in the school of experience. The theory of it may be gathered from books but the actuality has to be hammered out on the anvil of our hearts. Of our glorious Head, it is declared, 'Thou He were a son, yet learned He obedience by the things which He suffered' (Hebrews 5:8). This word of David's also indicates that he was beginning to feel the need of waiting upon God for directions. How much sorrow and suffering would be avoided did we always do so."

Easton's Dictionary - Adullam - The Cave of Adullam has been discovered about 2 miles south of the scene of David's triumph, and about 13 miles west from Bethlehem. At this place is a hill some 500 feet high pierced with numerous caverns, in one of which David gathered together "every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was discontented" (1

Sam. 22:2). Some of these caverns are large enough to hold 200 or 300 men. According to tradition this cave was at Wady Khureitun, between Bethlehem and the Dead Sea, but this view cannot be well maintained.

1 Samuel 22 Cave Man

David was stuck in a cave (Psalm 142). Some Bible commentators think this was when he was running from King Saul, who wanted to kill him (1 Samuel 22:1). Trouble and troublemakers hounded him. Hemmed in by his circumstances and smothered by danger, he turned to God for help.

David was frightened, so he poured out his complaint to God (1 Samuel 22:2).

He felt alone and uncared for, so he cried out to God (1 Samuel 22:1,4-5).

His situation was desperate, so he pleaded for rescue (1 Samuel 22:6).

David was trapped, so he begged for freedom (1 Samuel 22:7).

What cave surrounds you today? A cave of despair brought on by grief or illness? A cave of difficulties caused by your own poor decisions? Are you stuck in a cave of questions or doubts that rob you of joy and confidence?

Here's what David did when he was trapped in his cave: He asked God for mercy, he sought refuge in Him, and he promised to use his eventual freedom as a way to praise God. In the end, he looked forward to the comfort of fellow believers.

Complaint followed by faith. Desperation followed by praise. Loneliness followed by fellowship. We can learn a lot from a cave man.
—Dave Branon

When we experience suffering,
God's comfort will abound;
For tribulations teach us where
True comfort can be found.
—Sper

In every desert of calamity, God has an oasis of comfort.

Psalm 142

Note: David was in a cave while fleeing for his life on 2 occasions, here in 1Sa 22 in Adullam and in 1Sa 24:3 in Engedi. Expositors are divided as to the occasion to which this psalm refers.

1 Maskil of David, when he was in the cave. A Prayer.

I cry aloud with my voice to the LORD;
I make supplication with my voice to the LORD.

2 I pour out my complaint before Him;
I declare my trouble before Him.

3 When my spirit was overwhelmed within me,
You knew my path.
In the way where I walk
They have hidden a trap for me.

4 Look to the right and see;
For there is no one who regards me;
There is no escape for me;
No one cares for my soul.

5 I cried out to You, O LORD;
I said, "You are my refuge,
My portion in the land of the living.

6 "Give heed to my cry,
For I am brought very low;
Deliver me from my persecutors,
For they are too strong for me.

7 "Bring my soul out of prison,
So that I may give thanks to Your name;
The righteous will surround me,
For You will deal bountifully with me."

Spurgeon's Treasury of David Psalm 142:1-7

NOTE - For all of the notes on Psalm 142 (Quaint Sayings, Hints for Preachers, etc) click full commentary. The following focuses on Spurgeon's expository notes.

TITLE. Maschil of David. This Maschil is written for our instruction. It teaches us principally by example how to order our prayer in times of distress. Such instruction is among the most needful, practical, and effectual parts of our spiritual education. He who has learned how to pray has been taught the most useful of the arts and sciences. The disciples said unto the Son of David, "Lord, teach, us to pray"; and here David gives us a valuable lesson by recording his own experience as to supplication from beneath a cloud.

A Prayer when he was in the cave. He was in one of his many lurking places, either Engedi, Adullam, or some other lone cavern wherein he could conceal himself from Saul and his blood hounds. Caves make good closets for prayer; their gloom and solitude are helpful to the exercise of devotion. Had David prayed as much in his palace as he did in his cave, he might never have fallen into the act which brought such misery upon his later days.

SUBJECT. There can be little doubt that this song dates from the days when Saul was sorely persecuting David, and David himself was in soul trouble, probably produced by that weakness of faith which led him to associate with heathen princes. His fortunes were evidently at their lowest, and, what was worse, his repute had fearfully fallen; yet he displayed a true faith in God, to whom he made known his pressing sorrows. The gloom of the cave is over the psalm, and yet as if standing at the mouth of it the prophet poet sees a bright light a little beyond.

EXPOSITION.

Psalm 142:1. I cried unto the LORD with my voice.

It was a cry of such anguish that he remembers it long after, and makes a record of it. In the loneliness of the cave he could use his voice as much as he pleased; and therefore he made its gloomy vaults echo with his appeals to heaven. When there was no soul in the cavern seeking his blood, David with all his soul was engaged in seeking his God. He felt it a relief to his heart to use his voice in his pleadings with Jehovah. There was a voice in his prayer when he used his voice for prayer: it was not vox et praeterea nihil. It was a prayer vivo corde as well as vivâ voce.

In his lonely wanderings he made the woods and caverns echo with his prayers.

"The calm retreat, the silent shade,
With prayer and praise agree,
And seem by thy kind bounty made
For those who worship thee."

A W Pink - A careful reading of the fifty-seventh Psalm will enable us to follow one who began it amid the gloomy shadows of the cavern, but from which he gradually emerged into the open daylight. So it often is in the experiences of the believer's soul.

Perhaps the Psalm 142 was composed by David before the Psalm 57: certainly it brings before us one who was in deeper anguish of soul. Blessed indeed is it to mark the striking contrast from what is here presented to us and what was before us as we passed through 1 Samuel 20. There we saw the worried fugitive turning to Jonathan, lying to Ahimelech, playing the madman at Gath. But vain was the hope of man. Yet how often we have to pass through these painful experiences and bitter disappointments before we thoroughly learn this lesson! Here we behold the son of Jesse turning to the only One who could do him any real good. "I cried unto the Lord with my voice I poured out my complaint before Him. I showed before Him my trouble" (vv. 1, 2). This is what we should do: thoroughly unburden our hearts unto Him with whom we have to do. Note how, at the close of this Psalm, after he had so freely poured out his woes, David exclaimed, "Thou shalt deal bountifully with me!"

With my voice unto the Lord did I make my supplication.

He dwells upon the fact that he spoke aloud in prayer; it was evidently well impressed upon his memory, hence he doubles the word and says, "with my voice; with my voice." It is well when our supplications are such that we find pleasure in looking back upon them. He that is cheered by the memory of his prayers will pray again. See how the good man's appeal was to Jehovah only: he did not go round about to men, but he ran straight forward to Jehovah, his God. What true wisdom is here! Consider how the Psalmist's prayer grew into shape as he proceeded with it. It first poured out his natural longings, "I cried"; and then he gathered up all his wits and arranged his thoughts, "I made supplication." True prayers may differ in their diction, but not in their direction: an impromptu cry and a preconceived supplication must alike ascend towards the one prayer hearing God, and he will accept each of them with equal readiness. The intense personality of the prayer is noteworthy: no doubt the Psalmist was glad of the prayers of others, but he was not content to be silent himself. See how everything is in the first person, "I cried with my voice; with my voice did I make my supplication." It is good to pray in the plural "Our Father", but in times of trouble we shall feel forced to change our note into "Let this cup pass from me."

Psalm 142:2. I poured out my complaint before him.

His inward meditation filled his soul: the bitter water rose up to the brim; what was to be done? He must pour out the wormwood and the gall, he could not keep it in; he lets it run away as best it can, that so his heart may be emptied of the fermenting mixture. But he took care where he outpoured his complaint, lest he should do mischief, or receive an ill return. If he poured it out before man he might only receive contempt from the proud, hardheartedness from the careless, or pretended sympathy from the false; and therefore he resolved upon an outpouring before God alone, since he would pity and relieve. The word is Scarcely "complaint"; but even if it be so we may learn from this text that our complaint must never be of a kind that we dare not bring before God. We may complain to God, but not of God. When we complain it should not be before men, but before God alone.

I shewed before him my trouble.

He exhibited his griefs to one who could assuage them: he did not fall into the mistaken plan of so many who publish their sorrows to those who cannot help them. This verse is parallel with the first; David first pours out his complaint, letting it flow forth in a natural, spontaneous manner, and then afterwards he makes a more elaborate show of his affliction; just as in the former verse (Psalms 141:1-10) he began with crying, and went on to "make supplication." Praying men pray better as they proceed. Note that we do not show our trouble before the Lord that he may see it, but that we may see him. It is for our relief, and not for his information that we make plain statements concerning our woes: it does us much good to set out our sorrow in order, for much of it vanishes in the process, like a ghost which will not abide the light of day; and the rest loses much of its terror, because the veil of mystery is removed by a clear and deliberate stating of the trying facts. Pour out your thoughts and you will see what they are; show your trouble and the extent of it will be known to you: let all be done before the Lord, for in comparison with his great majesty of love the trouble will seem to be as nothing.

Psalm 142:3. When my spirit was overwhelmed within me, then thou knewest my path.

The bravest spirit is sometimes sorely put to it. A heavy fog settles down upon the mind, and the man seems drowned and smothered in it; covered with a cloud, crushed with a load, confused with difficulties, conquered by impossibilities. David was a hero, and yet his spirit sank: he could smite a giant down, but he could not keep himself up. He did not know his own path, nor feel able to bear his own burden. Observe his comfort: he looked away from his own condition to the ever observant, all knowing God: and solaced himself with the fact that all was known to his heavenly Friend. Truly it is well for us to know that God knows what we do not know. We lose our heads, but God never closes his eyes: our judgments lose their balance, but the eternal mind is always clear.

In the way wherein I walked have they privily laid a snare for me.

This the Lord knew at the time, and gave his servant warning of it. Looking back, the sweet singer is rejoiced that he had so gracious a Guardian, who kept him from unseen dangers. Nothing is hidden from God; no secret snare can hurt the man who dwells in the secret place of the Most High, for he shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. The use of concealed traps is disgraceful to our enemies, but they care little to what tricks they resort for their evil purposes. Wicked men must find some exercise for their malice, and therefore when they dare not openly assail they will privately ensnare. They watch the gracious man to see where his haunt is, and there they set their trap; but they do it with great caution, avoiding all observation, lest their victim being forewarned should escape their toils. This is a great trial, but the Lord is greater still, and makes us to walk safely in the midst of danger, for he knows us and our enemies, our way and the snare which is laid in it. Blessed be his name.

But since God knew his path, he was not taken in their snares. We owe eternal praises to the Lord for keeping us out of the hands of our enemies.

Psalm 142:4. I looked on my right hand, and beheld, but there was noman that would know me.

He did not miss a friend for want of looking for him, nor for want of looking in a likely place. Surely some helper would be found in the place of honour; some one would stand at his right hand to undertake his defence. He looked steadily, and saw all that could be seen, for he "beheld"; but his anxious gaze was not met by an answering smile. Strange to say, all were strange to David. He had known many, but none would know him. When a person is in ill odour it is wonderful how weak the memories of his former friends become: they quite forget, they refuse to know. This is a dire calamity. It is better to be opposed by foes than to be forsaken by friends, When friends look for us they affect to have known us from our birth, but when we look for friends it is wonderful how little we can make them remember: the fact is that in times of desertion it is not true that no man did know us, but no man would know us. Their ignorance is wilful.

Refuge failed me.

Where in happier days I found a ready harbour I now discovered none at all. My place of flight had taken to flight. My refuge gave me a refusal.

No man cared for my soul.

Whether I lived or died was no concern of anybody's. I was cast out as an outcast. No soul cared for my soul. I dwelt in No man's land, where none cared to have me, and none cared about me. This is an ill plightno place where to lay our head, and no head willing to find us a place. How pleased were his enemies to see the friend of God without a friend! How sad was he to be utterly deserted in his utmost need! Can we not picture David in the cave, complaining that even the cave was not a refuge for him, for Saul had come even there? Hopeless was his looking out, we shall soon see him looking up.

Psalm 142:5. I cried unto thee, O Lord.

As man would not regard him, David was driven to Jehovah, his God. Was not this a gain made out of a loss? Wealth gained by a failure? Anything which leads us to cry unto God is a blessing to us. This is the second time that in this short psalm we find the same record, "I cried unto thee, O LORD": the saintly man is evidently glad to remember his cry and its results. We hear often of the bitter cry of outcast London, here is another bitter cry, and it comes from an outcast, in wretched lodgings, forgotten by those who should have helped him.

I said, Thou art my refuge and my portion in the land of the living.

There is a sort of progressive repetition all through this sacred song; he cried first, but he said afterwards: his cry was bitter, but his saying was sweet; his cry was sharp and short, but his saying was fresh and full. It gives a believer great pleasure to remember his own believing speeches: he may well desire to bury his unbelieving murmurings in oblivion, but the triumphs of grace in working in him a living faith, he will not dream of forgetting. What a grand confession of faith was this! David spoke to God, and of God "Thou art my refuge." Not thou hast provided me a refuge, but thou, thyself, art my refuge. He fled to God alone; he hid himself beneath the wings of the Eternal. He not only believed this, but said it, and practised it. Nor was this all; for David, when banished from his portion in the promised land, and cut off from the portion of goods which he by right inherited, found his portion in God, yea, God was his portion. This was so not only in reference to a future state, but here among living men. It is sometimes easier to believe in a portion in heaven than in a portion upon earth: we could die more easily than live, at least we think so. But there is no living in the land of the living like living upon the living God. For the man of God to say these precious things in the hour of his dire distress was a grand attainment. It is easy to prate bravely when we dwell at ease, but to speak confidently in affliction is quite another matter.

Even in this one sentence we have two parts, the second rising far above the first. It is something to have Jehovah for our refuge, but it is everything to have him for our portion. If David had not cried he would not have said; and if the Lord had not been his refuge he would never have been his portion. The lower step is as needful as the higher; but it is not necessary always to stop on the first round of the ladder.

Psalm 142:6. Attend unto my cry.

Men of God look upon prayer as a reality, and they are not content without having an audience with God; moreover, they have such confidence in the Lord's condescending grace, that they hope he will even attend to that poor broken prayer which can only be described as a cry.

In the worst times all is well if we do not lose our faith in the Lord. No matter how powerful our enemies, we shall overcome if we cling to the divine arm

For I am brought very low, and therefore all the prayer I can raise is a mournful cry.

This is his argument with God: he is reduced to such a sad condition that if he be not rescued he will be ruined. Gracious men may not only be low, but very low; and this should not be a reason for their doubting the efficacy of their prayers, but rather a plea with the Lord why they should have special attention.

Deliver me from my persecutors.

If he did not get out of their hands, they would soon kill him out of hand, and as he could not himself effect an escape, he cried to God, "deliver me."

For they are stronger than I.

As he before found a plea in his sadness, so now in his feebleness: Saul and his courtiers were in power, and could command the aid of all who sought royal favour; but poor David was in the cave, and every Nabal girded at him. Saul was a monarch, and David a fugitive; Saul had all the forms of law on his side, while David was an outlaw: so that the prayer before us comes from the weak, who proverbially go to the wall, a good place to go to if they turn their faces to it in prayer, as Hezekiah did in his sickness. The Lord is wont to take the side of the oppressed, and to show his power by baffling tyrants; David's supplication was therefore sure to speed. In these sentences we see how explicitly the man of God described his case in his private communings with his Lord: in real earnest he poured out his complaint before him and showed before him his trouble.

Psalm 142:7. Bring my soul out of prison, that I may praise thy name.

That God may be glorified is another notable plea for a suppliant. Escaped prisoners are sure to speak well of those who give them liberty; Soul emancipation is the noblest form of liberation, and calls for the loudest praise: he who is delivered from the dungeons of despair is sure to magnify the name of the Lord. We are in such a prison that only God himself can bring us out of it, and when he does so he will put a new song into our mouths. The cave was not half such a dungeon to David's body as persecution and temptation made for his soul. To be exiled from the godly is worse than imprisonment, hence David makes it one point of his release that he would be restored to church fellowship

The righteous shall compass me about.

Saints gather around a child of God when his Father smiles upon him; they come to hear his joyful testimony, to rejoice with him, and to have their own faith encouraged. All the true believers in the twelve tribes were glad to rally to David's banner when the Lord enlarged his spirit; they glorified God for him and with him and through him. They congratulated him, consorted with him, crowned him, and championed him. This was a sweet experience for righteous David, who had for awhile come under the censure of the upright. He bore their smiting with patience, and now he welcomes their sanction with gratitude.

Very soon, good men and true mustered in great numbers under David's command, and he was no more left in utter loneliness, but became a powerful leader. The Lord can find us friends when we are friendless

For thou shalt deal bountifully with me.

God's bountiful dealing is sure to bring with it the sympathy and alliance of all the favourites of the Great King. What a change from looking for a friend and finding none to this enthusiastic concourse of allies around the man after God's own heart! When we can begin a psalm with crying, we may hope to close it with singing. The voice of prayer soon awakens the voice of praise.

Company of the Unfit - 1 Samuel 21:1-2

When Gen. George Washington gathered his armies to fight against the redcoats, they came from every conceivable walk of life.

Some were frontiersmen, while others were merchants, farmers and even slaves. But the overwhelming majority had one thing in common: they were not trained soldiers. Most of them had shot nothing bigger than wild game. Yet in spite of that glaring deficiency, they took on the disciplined regiments of British regulars, and after a seven-year struggle they won.

David's army also was a ragtag band of misfits. Those who were in trouble, in debt or simply discontented were drawn to him. A more motley group of outcasts would be hard to find—hardly a fit army for a would-be king. Yet despite their many shortcomings, God used them ultimately to bring David to the throne.

God delights in accomplishing His will through those the world considers unfit. He always has been attracted to people who will make themselves available and let Him do the rest. He took a schemer like Jacob and made him the father of Israel. He took an escaped fugitive like Moses and made him a fearless liberator. Therefore, it should come as no surprise that He was able to take a group of unlikely malcontents and debtors and use them to establish a shepherd boy like David as king over Israel. Imagine what He can do with you and me.

Are you ill-equipped for the task that God has called you to? Then rejoice, because that means you have the primary qualification God is looking for. If you are willing to be used, God will do the rest. (Courtesy of Back to the Bible)

God can make the unfit fit for His plans.

James Smith - DAVID IN ADULLAM.1 Samuel 22:1, 2; 23.

"When God afflicts thee, think He hews a rugged stone, Which must be shaped, or else aside as useless thrown!"
—Trench.

In the closing verses of the previous chapter we have recorded what was perhaps the darkest passage in the experience of David. What a melancholy sight—the Lord's anointed one feigning himself mad through the fear of man. Even anointed ones will be constrained to play the fool when they put their trust in the arm of flesh instead of in the living God (chap. 21:10). As soon as David lost faith in God he changed his behaviour, and took to "scribbling on the doors of the gate" like a lunatic. There is a very vital connection between our creed and our conduct; a change of faith will certainly lead to a change of behaviour. Through fear of King Achish David fled to the cave of Adullam. Solitude with God is better than the friendship of the world. This act of separation was richly rewarded, for "his brethren and all his father's house went down thither to him" (see chap. 17:28). There came also many others.

I. The Character of those who came to David.

1. THE DISTRESSED. It was one thing to hear about David, and perhaps to sympathise with him in his cause; it was quite another thing to be driven to him by the force of sheer necessity. We are not told what they were distressed about. The cause may have been the sufferings of David or the unsettled condition of the country, or some personal affliction and loss. In any case, it is a blessed distress that constrains us to seek the help and share the fortunes of the Lord's anointed. The self-satisfied heed not the claims of the rejected One (Rev. 3:20). It was distress that brought the prodigal home to his father (Luke 15:18).

2. THE DEBTORS. "Every one that was in debt." In fleeing to David, and espousing his cause, those bankrupts found a way of escape out of all their liabilities under the rule of a God-rejected Saul. Under the law we are insolvent debtors, but Christ rescues such sinners, and is willing to bear their blame for ever (Luke 7:42).

3. THE DISCONTENTED. Those whose souls were embittered through disappointment and harassing circumstances—thirsty, restless, and unsatisfied lives. Oh, how many are smitten with this plague! Yet how few seek refuge in the presence of Him who alone can satisfy (Psa. 23:5). Around the world's self-made broken cisterns there are great multitudes of such wretched folk who are more inclined to talk of their complaints than to go to the heavenly David, who is the Fountain of Life (Jer. 2:13). Contentment is learned here (Phil. 4:11).

II. Why they came to David.

1. THEY CAME BECAUSE THEY BELIEVED IN HIM. They believed that David was God's appointed king, and his was the right to reign over them. They had in fact got converted to David. Faith cometh by hearing. Have we so believed in Jesus Christ as the divinely-appointed and highly exalted King over all?

2. THEY CAME BECAUSE THEY WERE DECIDED FOR HIM. Their belief led them to take definite action. They not only heard the sayings, but did them, according to the ways of the wise (Matt. 7:24). It is one thing to believe about Christ, as the anointed Saviour and King; it is quite another to take our stand with Him and for Him (John 9:27). In deciding for David, they, like us, had to go forth unto him, without the camp, bearing his reproach (Heb. 13:13). Decision for Christ means separation from the world.

3. THEY CAME BECAUSE THEY WERE PREPARED TO SUBMIT TO HIM. Having claimed him as their king, they yielded themselves into his hands, for the honour of his name and the advancement of his kingdom. How can we claim to have acknowledged Christ as our King if we have not surrendered ourselves to Him? Is not this our reasonable service? (Rom. 12:1).

III. What David became to Them. "He became a captain over them." As soon as they took their place as followers David assumed his right and power to lead. They would thus therefore look to him—

1. FOR GUIDANCE. Their attitude to David now is, "Not my will, but thine be done;" what wilt thou have me to do? Is this the attitude of our heart to Him who hath received us in our dire need, having redeemed us with His Blood? One is your Master, even Christ. He guides by the unerring eye of His Word (Psa. 32:8). "Lead thou me on."

2. FOR PROTECTION. Having become the disciples of David, they exposed themselves to the wrath and enmity of the followers of Saul. They who obey the god of this world will always be at war in their heart with the followers of the Lord's anointed. But greater is He that is with us than he that is with them. God is for us, therefore we shall not be moved. David said, "Abide with me, fear not; for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life: but with me thou shalt be in safeguard" (v. 23). "He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him."

3. FOR REWARD. The cause of David was no forlorn hope. It was the cause of God, therefore its ultimate triumph was sure. They who suffered with him in the days of his national rejection would, no doubt, be honoured with him in the day of his exaltation. "If we suffer with Him, we shall also be glorified together" (Rom. 8:17). The day is coming when this despised One shall be crowned Lord of All, and those who have followed Him in the rejection will be abundantly rewarded when they enter into the "Joy of the Lord" (Matt. 25:21). He shall divide the spoil with the strong (Isa. 53:12).

A W Pink - AT the close of the preceding chapter, we saw the backslider restored to communion with God. As David then wrote, "Many are the afflictions of the righteous"—most of them brought upon themselves through sinful folly—"but the Lord delivereth him out of them all" (Ps. 34:19). Yet, in His own good time. The hour had not yet arrived for our patriarch to ascend the throne. It would have been a simple matter for God to have put forth His power, destroyed Saul, and given His servant rest from all his foes. And this, no doubt, is what the energetic nature of David had much preferred. But there were other counsels of God to be unfolded before He was ready for the son of Jesse to wield the scepter. Though we are impulsive and impetuous, God is never in a hurry; the sooner we learn this lesson, the better for our own peace of mind, and the sooner shall we "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him" (Ps. 37:7).

"God had designs other than the mere exaltation of David. He intended to allow the evil of Saul and of Israel to exhibit itself. He intended to give to David some apprehension of the character of his own heart, and to cause him to learn subjection to a greater wisdom than his own. He intended also to prove the hearts of His own people Israel; and to try how many among them would discern that the Cave of Adullam was the only true place of excellency and honour in Israel" (B. W. Newton). Further discipline was needed by David, if he was to learn deeper lessons of dependency upon God. Learn from this, dear reader, that though God's delays are trying to flesh and blood, nevertheless they are ordered by perfect wisdom and infinite love. "For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come" (Hab. 2:3). (Life of David)

Theodore Epp - Rejected but Strong 1 Samuel 22:1-5; Psalm 34:8-22

We find in 1 Samuel 22 that David has stopped hiding among his enemies and has returned to his own land. It was during this period in his experience that he wrote psalms 34, 57 and 142.

David was God's anointed king in exile. These men gathered around him, recognizing him as God's chosen one. They were willing to wait for God's time with him and were willing to suffer with him if necessary.

They did for David what we are admonished to do for Christ in Hebrews 13:13: "Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing his reproach."

Paul reminded us in Romans 8:17 that we are "heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him."

Our Lord is now rejected but is gathering together a group to reign with Him. This is only a small army. They are equipped to fight, not with carnal weapons but with the spiritual weapons that are mighty through God. With Christ as Captain this army will conquer.

We can only do great things in the future as we learn to do the right things now. We learn from Ephesians 2:6 that God has "raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus."

This is something that is true of us now. We are being trained by our Lord now and can learn to say as Paul did, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" (Phil. 4:13).

"Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand" (Ps. 37:24).

David Leader/Teacher of a Motley Crew

THE 3 "D'S" DESCEND ON DAVID! (MOTLEY CREW > MIGHTY MEN)

Everyone who was in distress (matsog; Lxx = anagke - state of distress or trouble, calamity, pressure), and everyone who was in debt (Lit = had a creditor), and everyone who was discontented (mar + nephesh = bitter of soul) gathered to him; and he became captain (sar = leader; Lxx = hegeomai = leader = making a decision after weighing the facts or circumstances) over them - David became captain over a band of men united by the fact that in some way they all had experienced adversity. He was a leader, which describes one who rules, guides, or inspires others! David fulfilled all these functions. In Psalm 34:11 David writes "Come, you children, listen to me; I will teach you the fear of the LORD." Surely that is part of the crash course cave curriculum of the 300 "hardluck hooligans" (Swindoll)!

THOUGHT - I love this list of David's motley (incongruously varied in appearance or character) crew! If you can't find yourself somewhere in this triad of terms (at least some of the times in your life), then you must be glorified (in Heaven)! Most of us, if we are honest, can identify with one or more of this group (yes, they were men, but they were representative of women also, and so they apply to both sexes). Motley yes, but leaderless no! They had a man after God's own heart (Acts 13:22+) who molded motley men into mighty men of David. We too have a leader, the greater David, the Son of David, Who seeks to mold us (transform us) into mighty men and women of Christ Jesus! Let us take heart and be encouraged for we are HIS workmanship (Ep 2:10+, see "Poiema - His Masterpiece), "works of the Master's hand" in progress (Play Wayne Watson's "The Touch of the Master's Hand"). May we all seek to be mind malleable, soul supple, heart tender, and spirit humble, so that His Spirit and Word might continually transform us from glory to glory into His image (2Co 3:18+). Wherever you are in this process of progressive sanctification, we can be confident and fully assured of God's promise "that He who began a good work in you will perfect it until the day of Christ Jesus." Amen and Amen. (Php 1:6+).

God gives special attention to cries when they come out of caves
-- Chuck Swindoll

Anderson - It was DISTRESS that drove the Prodigal Son home to his father. It is when we are in distress that we cry out to God and are driven to the side of our Lord. The second group were those who were in DEBT. God's laws show us our sin and how bankrupt we are to meet God's judgment. The third type of man who came to David was DISCONTENTED. Maybe this means they were embittered, disappointed, frustrated, restless. How many people are discontented today? They came to David because they believed David was God's anointed king and had a right to rule over them. They were converted from Saul to David. They also decided for him with action. It is one thing to believe in the coming kingdom of Christ; it's another to take your stand for him and to identify yourself with him. He became their leader, and they yielded to him in all things. They stood with him in exile and suffering so that one day they might share with him the kingdom. They looked to David for training

Wiersbe - What a motley group gathered around the exiled king (1 Cor. 1:26–30)! A. W. Tozer used to say, "Don't follow any leader until you see the mark of the oil on his forehead." David had the anointing of God, and he represented the future in Israel. Yes, he made mistakes and was sometimes discouraged, but he was God's man and God used him. (Borrow With the Word)

Now there were about four hundred men with him - We might call them David's motley crew who would grow under David's leadership into David's mighty men (cf 2Sa 10:7)

Spurgeon - In this he became a type of our Lord Jesus, of whom it was said, "This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them." David's followers had been rendered desperate by the oppressions of Saul, but though they were bold and warlike men, they do not appear to have been evil in character; rather from their sympathy with David, and their general conduct, we may believe them to have been the best men in the kingdom, who, from that very cause, had been impoverished by Saul's spiteful treatment. Those who side with Jesus must expect to be treated as he was, and if this drives us into closer fellowship with our despised and rejected Lord, so much the better.

It was at this time that some of his boldest followers joined him.

Brian Bell - 400 men who looked to David for leadership. His own little Tea Party Movement! 2. Distress - some were staggering under great pressures & stresses. a) Spiritually no self-satisfied man ever comes to Christ. Matter of fact in Rev.3 Jesus stands outside the door of the church that saw themselves as rich, increased w/ goods, & in need of nothing. It was sheer distress that drove the prodigal son back to his father. 3. Debt - others were drowning in debt due to Saul's heavy taxation. a) Spiritually we also are bankrupt wretched people, & apart from grace we find ourselves bankrupt, insolvent, desperately in debt & helpless to meet God's judgment. Therefore, our only hope is to fly to the wounded side of the Lord. 4. Discontented - still others sought out the national hero who had been similarly abused. a) Spiritually today many are embittered, disappointed, frustrated, & restless yet instead of running to Christ they gather around the world's broken cisterns trying to satisfy their thirst for they know not what. Yet, if any man thirst, let him come to Jesus & drink, then out of his life shall flow rivers of cool living water. b) Well, David welcomed these men & provided the godly leadership they needed. c) He said, Come, my children, listen to me; I will teach you the fear of the Lord. Ps 34:11 God may not bring 400 people to your doorstep, but he may bring someone who is in a similar situation to say, "I understand". 1. As...Cancer patients find a new reason to live by reaching out to other cancer patients; Alcoholics, the strength to stay sober by helping other recovering alcoholics; Victims of abuse, the hope to endure by ministering to other victims of abuse. (Swindoll) In David's darkest hour, God gave him a ministry of helping men like him who had been worn down by injustice! 1. Their spirits could have easily soured like rotten milk, fermenting into calls for a violent revolution. 2. But David kept his eyes on God & instilled character & direction in their lives. He trained them to be mighty warriors (1 Chron. 11:10-47) & their # increased from 400 to 600 strong. W. Wait! How did this take place? - From lonely desperation to God-entrusted leadership? 1. 3 Psalms clue us in: Ps. 142, 57, 34 reveal the attitude that made change possible. Key: David is now undergoing a most essential part of his training, which will qualify him to pass on to us cave dwellers... "Oh, taste and see that the Lord is good; Blessed is the man who trusts/takes refuge in him." Maybe you find yourself in the Cave of Adullam; Maybe you find yourself in Distress, or in debt, or discontent. Oh, taste & see that the Lord is good; Blessed is the man who trusts/takes refuge in him

Distress (04689)(matsoq from tsuq = to constrain, bring into straits, press upon, great external pressure) means anguish (= agonizing physical or mental pain; torment, misery), distress, stress, straits. Note in 4 of the 6 uses matsoq clearly refers to hardships and anxiety especially brought on from disobeying the Lord (Deut. 28:53, 55, 57; Jer. 19:9). THOUGHT - Oh to hear this truth and heed this truth, so that the next time we are tempted to commit flagrant, willful disobedience, we recall matsoq to our minds!!! But praise God for Ps 119:143 where the psalmist was in anguish (makes you think this was David writing Ps 119), but was relieved by delighting in God's commandments! The NLT paraphrases it "As pressure and stress bear down on me, I find joy in your commands." Amen and amen!

Gilbrant - The masculine noun, mātsôq, is derived from tsûq, "to press upon." The verb has a number of cognates which connote "narrow," "tight." The KJV, therefore, often translates mātsôq as "straits" or "straitness," referring to a place of great distress. Mothers would be forced to eat their own children if they disobey and forsake his commands. In a time of "distress" that enemies would bring Israel when they found themselves under God's curse, such atrocities would occur (Deut. 28:53-59). When David hid from King Saul in the cave of Adullam, 1 Sam. 22:2 states that men who were in distress joined forces with him. (Complete Biblical Library)

Matsoq - 6v - anguish(1), distress(5). Deut. 28:53; Deut. 28:55; Deut. 28:57; 1 Sam. 22:2; Ps. 119:143; Jer. 19:9

Deuteronomy 28:53+ "Then you shall eat the offspring of your own body, the flesh of your sons and of your daughters whom the LORD your God has given you, during the siege and the distress (Lxx - stenochoria = narrow place, figuratively, as the restrictiveness and pressures brought on by inner or outer problems) by which your enemy will oppress you.

Deuteronomy 28:55+ so that he will not give even one of them any of the flesh of his children which he will eat, since he has nothing else left, during the siege and the distress Lxx - stenochoria = narrow place, figuratively, as the restrictiveness and pressures brought on by inner or outer problems) by which your enemy will oppress you in all your towns.

Deuteronomy 28:57+ and toward her afterbirth which issues from between her legs and toward her children whom she bears; for she will eat them secretly for lack of anything else, during the siege and the distress Lxx - stenochoria = narrow place, figuratively, as the restrictiveness and pressures brought on by inner or outer problems) by which your enemy will oppress you in your towns.

Psalms 119:143 (see commentary) Trouble and anguish have come upon me, yet Your commandments are my delight.

Jeremiah 19:9 "I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and they will eat one another's flesh in the siege and in the distress with which their enemies and those who seek their life will distress them."

Discontent (bitter) (04751) mar is an adjective most often used figuratively to express the emotional response to a destructive, heart-crushing situation. It is used in a literal sense - bitter grape clusters (Dt. 32:32); bitter water (Ex 15:23); food in general (Pr 27:7). Although an adjective, mar can function alone as the noun bitterness (Isa. 38:15, 17) or as an adverb, bitterly (Isa 33:7, Ezek 27:30, Zeph 1:14). Mar can describe results of continued fighting (2 Sa 2:26). Figuratively modifies Esau's cry (Ge 27:34; Esther 4:1; Ezek 27:30); bitterness of death (1 Sa 15:32); or to describe a person discontented (1 Sa 22:2); provoked (2 Sa 17:8); anguished (Ezek. 27:31); ruthless (Hab. 1:6). Naomi's name for herself (Ru 1:20). Victor Hamilton gives a good survey of the figurative uses - Some of these situations are: (1) in the case of a woman, barrenness and sterility, 1 Samuel 1:10; (2) an unfulfilled death-wish, Job 3:20; (3) family turmoil, Genesis 27:34; (4) the exploitation and deprivation of minority peoples, Esther 4:1; (5) personal suffering and hardship, Job 7:11; Job 10:1; Isaiah 38:15; (6) a hostile and precarious situation, Psalm 64:3 [H 4]; grief over the apostasy of believers, Jeremiah 2:19; (7) the Lord's judgment on unbelievers, Zeph. 1:14; (8) discontentment with lacklustre leadership, 1 Samuel 22:2; (9) the thought of death, 1 Samuel 15:32; (10) the crumbling of dreams and aspiration, Ezekiel 27:30, 31. . THE CRY FROM THE CAVE - 1 Samuel 22:2 - Charles Swindoll (Borrow Starting Over page 42) points out that "The cave of Adullam was no Holiday Inn. It was a wicked refuge camp, a dark vault on the side of a cliff that reached deeply into a hill. Huddled in this clammy cavern were 400 losers, a mob of miserable humanity--the original Mafia. They all had one thing in common--a bad record. The place smelled like the Rams' locker room and sounded like an army barracks. You can bet not one of those guys ever heard Gothard's Principles on Handling Irritations. They were so tough, they'd make Al Capone sleep with a night light. They were gross. Except for David--that's right, David. It became his responsibility to turn that mob into an organized, well-disciplined fighting force, mighty men of valor. Talk about a challenge. These weren't the Filthy Five nor the Nasty Nine, nor the Dirty Dozen. Remember, there were 400 of these hardluck hooligans. Soon they became 600 and David was the den mother for these desperadoes. He was general, master sergeant and chaplain all rolled into one. David, "the sweet psalmist of Israel" became David the drill instructor. Needless to say, his battalion of 600 is not to be confused with the 600 who "rode into the valley of death" in Tennyson's Charge of the Light Brigade. The only place these guys had ridden was out of town, chased by their creditors...which turned David's men into predators. Did he pull it off? Could a shepherd from Bethlehem assume command of such a nefarious band of ne'er-do-wells? Did he meet the challenge? INDEED! In a brief period of time he had the troops in shape -- combat ready. Incredible as it seems, he was doing battle against the enemy forces using strategic maneuvers before the year was up. These were the very men who fought loyally by his side and gave him strong support when he became the king of Israel. They were called "the mighty men" and many of their names are listed in the Bible for heroism and dedication.

All of us face a challenge. For some of you, it's a business that has all the earmarks of disaster. For others, it's the challenge of schooling without adequate money, or a houseful of young lives to shape, or a wounded relationship, or a prolonged illness that lingers and hurts. Still others of you find yourself in leadership over a group of people who need constant direction and encouragement...and you're tired of the demands. Some of you endure employment in a company that lacks a lot.

Be encouraged. If David could handle that cave full of malcontents, you can tighten your belt and take on the challenge in your cave. Do you need strength? Peace? Wisdom? Direction? Discipline? Ask for it! God will hear you. He gives special attention to cries when they come out of caves."

Henry Blackaby - Attractive People

Everyone who was in distress, and everyone who was in debt, and everyone who was discontented gathered to him; and he became captain over them. Now there were about four hundred men with him. 1 Samuel 22:2 (NASB)

The dictionary describes an attractive person as "pleasing, charming, having the power to attract others." Attractiveness goes much deeper than our physical features. We've all known some beautiful people who had personalities like rattlesnakes. They were either abrasive, obnoxious, self-centered, shallow, or all of the above. They may attract us initially with their good looks, but we are soon repelled by their personalities.

David was a handsome man, but that wasn't what attracted people to him. He had a large circle of close and loyal friends because of his personality. He was like a magnet for hurting people because he understood their situation. He had been mistreated and misunderstood enough himself that he was able to sympathize with others. He was kind and thoughtful of others, so they wanted to be around him. Hundreds of men followed his leadership willingly because they knew he cared about them. No doubt David could have been as ugly as a can of worms, and he would have attracted the same people.

Do you have a personality like David's? Do people know that if they are hurting you will listen to them and sympathize with them? Or are you unknowingly giving off the message that you have time only for those who can help you? If you've been more of a taker than a giver lately, ask God to soften your heart and make you aware of ways to be a friend to someone today. More than likely, you'll receive a blessing in the process! (Borrow The experience : a devotional and journal : day by day with God)

Robert Hawker - MY soul, was not this thy case when thou first sought after Jesus? Thou wert, indeed, in debt, under an heavy load of insolvency. Distress and discontent sadly marked thy whole frame. Unconscious where to go, or to whom to seek, and no man cared for thy soul. Oh! what a precious thought it was, and which none but God the Holy Ghost could have put into thine heart,—Go unto Jesus! And when I came, and thou didst graciously condescend to be my Captain, from that hour how hath my soul been revived. My insolvency thou hast taken away; for thou hast more than paid the whole demands of the law; for thou hast magnified it and made it honourable. My distress under the apprehension of divine justice thou hast removed; for God's justice, by thee, is not only satisfied, but glorified. My discontent can have no further cause for exercise, since thou hast so graciously provided for all my wants, in grace here, and glory hereafter. Hail! thou great and glorious Captain of my salvation! In thee I see that Leader and Commander which Jehovah, thy Father, promised to give to the people. Thou art indeed, blessed Jesus! truly commissioned by thy Father to this very purpose, that every one that is in soul-distress, by reason of sin, and debtors to the broken law of God, may come unto thee, and take thee for their Captain. And truly, Lord, thy little army, like David's, is composed of none originally but distressed souls. None would take thee for his Captain whose spiritual circumstances are not desperate. None but the man whose heart hath felt distress, by reason of sin, and is sinking under the heavy load of guilt, will come under thy banner. Oh! the condescension of Jesus to receive such, and be gracious unto them. Oh! that I had the power of persuasion, I would say to every poor sinner, every insolvent debtor, every one who feels and knows the plague of his heart—Would to God you were with the Captain of my salvation, he would recover you from all your sorrow. Go to him, my brother, as I have done; he will take away your distress by taking away your sin. He will liberate you from all your debt by paying it himself. He will banish all discontent from the mind, in giving you peace with God by his blood. Yes! blessed, almighty Captain! thou art indeed over thy people, as well as a Captain to thy people. By the sword of thy spirit, which is the word of God, thou workest conviction in our hearts; thou makest all thine enemies fall under thee; thou leadest thy people on to victory, and makest them more than conquerors through thy grace supporting them. Lord, put on the military garments of salvation on my soul, and the whole armour of God, that under thy banner, I may be found in life, in death, and for evermore.

Michael Andrus - Sometimes in the wilderness you meet weird people, people who are either escaping reality or running from responsibility. The men who gather around David at the Cave of Adullam include those who are oppressed, in debt, or otherwise bitter at the cards they have been dealt. I imagine David said to himself more than once, "What did I do to earn friends like these? I can hardly feed myself and my family, and then 400 needy people of every sort find their way to my cave." I suspect he wanted to say, "Buzz off!" But he didn't. David seemed to have a unique ability to face a situation with the attitude, "Well, I'm not sure what God has in mind here, but he brought these people around me, so I'm going to make the best of it." And David begins to introduce some discipline and responsibility into this rag-tag group. Before long he has a band of loyal fighters who are willing to lay down their lives for him—a personal army that becomes an important ingredient throughout his rule over Israel.

Every one of us will enter the wilderness of difficult relationships from time to time. We may encounter what are sometimes called VDP's—very draining people, individuals who are emotionally needy and tend to drain every ounce of energy from us. We can blow them off, or we can tell them off, or we can say, "OK, God, I don't know why you brought this person into my life, but I'm going to make the best of it. Show me how to love these people well, as you do."

I know that I personally tend to give up on people too soon. I value hard work, discipline, and competency; I disdain laziness and carelessness. But what I have had to learn over the years (and I'm still learning it) is that these values of mine have a lot to do with the fact that I tend to be a perfectionist and a workaholic, and these are not necessarily godly characteristics. I have to give people a lot more leeway to be who God created them to be. If they don't measure up to my standards, they may yet measure up to God's, and that's more important.

There is another Psalm of David whose superscription tells us it was written "at the time David fled from Saul into the cave"—Psalm 57. We cannot be certain this is the Cave of Adullam, because David lived in several caves, but there is much here that fits the Adullam experience. Look particularly at Ps 57:4:

I am in the midst of lions; I lie among ravenous beasts—men whose teeth are spears and arrows, whose tongues are sharp swords.

I have a feeling that David is not talking about the enemies who drove him to the cave in the wilderness, but rather about the motley crew that has gathered around him. And what is his response to being surrounded by these troubled relationships? He says in Ps 57:1:

Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy on me,
for in you my soul takes refuge.
I will take refuge in the shadow of your wings.

When surrounded by difficult relationships, David takes refuge in the mercy of God. He also finds strength in praise. Twice, in verse 5 and again in verse 11, he says: "Be exalted, O God, above the heavens; let your glory be over all the earth." I think that's still the wisest approach for us to take when facing troubled relationships—appeal to God's mercy and find strength in praise.

G Campbell Morgan - 1 Sam. 22. 2. (Borrow Life applications from every chapter of the Bible)

The story of Adullam is a great story. Thither David went when he left Achish. Whether his going there was the final act of his fear, or the return to faith perhaps, it is hard to decide. In any case, he had now abandoned the attempt to seek safety among the enemies of his people. The cave became a rallying ground, and the result is found later in the character of the mighty men who were gathered about him. In many ways it was a sorry crowd that went down to join him there. Men in distress, in debt, and discontented, gathered about him. From the view-point of Saul they were the unfit men, who were a menace to the existing order of things. The probability is that they were what they were as a result of the chaotic condition of the kingdom; their distress resulting from the false method of government; their debt due to oppressive taxation; their discontent a righteous discontent with the prevailing wrongs. The true kingliness of David is seen in the effect he produced upon these men. They became an orderly company of mighty men, filled with the high heroic spirit which is capable of splendid loyalty and glorious deeds. It is almost impossible to escape from the parabolic value of this story. Our King is still rejected of men, though appointed by God. He is gathering about Him those in distress, in debt, discontented; and He is changing them by His rule into the men of might, who will stand by Him until the day of His earthly coronation. The phrase "cave of Adullam" has become the description of all sorts of associations of discontented men. Well, if these men are gathering about God's King, their discontent is being made the dynamic of human deliverance.

DAVID SHUTTLES FAMILY TO SAFETY IN MOAB

And David went from there to Mizpah of Moab - This would be a journey of about 70 miles (see journey from #6 Adullam to #7 Mizpah) Here we see David going to a second enemy of Israel (cf 1Sa 14:47 = Saul "fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab"). David however does have a Moabite tie, for his great-grandmother Ruth was a Moabitess.

The king of Moab was surely an enemy of Saul (see passage above), so that the principle of "the enemy of my enemy is my friend" comes into play.

Vos says it well, "Next David went east to the Dead Sea, into the territory of Moab, possibly because he had Moabite blood in his veins. His great-grandmother was Ruth. More likely however, he went there because he could expect protection as an opponent of a neighboring ruler. But it is entirely possible that David found a welcome for his parents in the court of the King of Moab because of the Moabite kinship. The words, 'Till I know what God will do for me' show David's sense of God's sovereign control over his life and his resignation to the will of God." (Borrow 1, 2 Samuel : Bible study commentary) and he said to the king of Moab, "Please let my father and my mother come and stay with you until I know what God will do for me - David's short back sliding is now reversed and he is seeking the will of God.

Mackintosh says, "If the moving of his finger would have set him on the throne, he would not have taken advantage of it. David waited simply upon God. Here was his strength, his elevation, his entire dependence. He could say, 'My soul, wait thou only upon God, for my expectation is from Him.' He was prepared to wait for God's time, being assured that it was the best and wisest time. He could say, 'My times are in Thy hand. Father, I wish for them to be there.' "

We shall never get to the end of all that God will do for us, if only we perfectly give ourselves up to Him. David had a very imperfect vision of all that was in God's plan for him; he had an inkling, but that was all. And we have still less. Yet let us recapitulate some of the things which God will do for us.

He waits to give us the spirit of Sonship: so that we may ever be conscious of His Fatherhood, and look up into His face in the garden of Gethsemane, and on the Mount of Transfiguration alike, calling Him Abba, Father.

He longs to lead us to full consecration; to lead us into such close association with Jesus in His redeeming purpose, that we may become His willing bond-servants, with no other purpose and aim in life than His service and glory.

He desires to deliver us from all known sin: that we may be blameless and harmless, His children without rebuke in this sinful world, who walk before Him in holiness and righteousness all our days.

He wants to anoint us with the Holy Spirit: so that our ministry to men may have more of the savor of Christ; may plough deeper furrows in human hearts; may have more abiding results.

He desires us to come into partnership with His Son— here in His redemptive purpose, yonder in His throne. To this indeed He calls us.

Who can know all that God waits to do, not here only, but yonder, when life has entered upon its eternal stage! "Now are we children of God; and it is not yet made manifest what we shall be" (1 John 3:2, R. V.).

1 Chronicles 12:8-18 From the Gadites there came over to David in the stronghold (metsad) in the wilderness (midbār), mighty (gibbor) men of valor (chayil), men trained for war, who could handle shield and spear, and whose faces were like the faces of lions, and they were as swift as the gazelles on the mountains. 9 Ezer was the first, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third, 10 Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth, 11 Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh, 12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth, 13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbannai the eleventh. 14 These of the sons of Gad were captains of the army; he who was least was equal to a hundred and the greatest to a thousand. 15 These are the ones who crossed the Jordan in the first month when it was overflowing all its banks and they put to flight all those in the valleys, both to the east and to the west. 16 Then some of the sons of Benjamin and Judah came to the stronghold to David. 17 David went out to meet them, and said to them, "If you come peacefully to me to help me, my heart shall be united with you; but if to betray me to my adversaries, since there is no wrong in my hands, may the God of our fathers look on it and decide." 18 Then the Spirit came upon Amasai, who was the chief of the thirty, and he said, "We are yours, O David, And with you, O son of Jesse! Peace, peace to you, And peace to him who helps you; Indeed, your God helps you!" Then David received them and made them captains of the band.

PARENTS REMAIN IN MOAB FOR THE DURATION

Then - Marks progression in the narrative.

he left them with the king of Moab; and they stayed with him all the time that David was in the stronghold (mesudah/mesuda) - Presumably they remained in Moab for the 10-12 years David was a fugitive from Saul, for they certainly would not have been safe while Saul was still living and reigning.

Laney has an interesting that "Returning from Moab, David spent some time at the stronghold transliterated Mesudah' (ED: HEBREW FOR "STRONGHOLD" = Metsudah) This may refer to Masada, the mountain fortress towering 1,320 feet above the shores of the Dead Sea." (Borrow First and Second Samuel)

F. B. Meyer speaks of this act of David by saying, "We need now enlarge on David's filial love which traversed the entire distance from Adullam to Moab to secure an asylum for his father and mother who are probably too aged to stand the hardships and dangers of his fugitive life. Suffice it to say, that his petition was readily granted by the king of Moab, perhaps on account of some pride in the Moabite blood that flowed in the veins of the young Hebrew warrior. But that double journey, first to secure the shelter, and then to escort the aged couple thither, evinces a pleasing trait in David's character. There was no lack of obedience to the first commandment with promise. It is, however, with the cave and the more motley group of his adherents that we have now to do."

Stronghold (fortress)(04686)(mesudah/mesuda from tsud = to hunt) means a fastness, stronghold. Mesudah (mesuda) refers to a wilderness or mountainous places for hiding, defense, and gathering supplies for battle (1Sa 22:4, 5; 24:22) especially David's city when he captured the "stronghold of Zion" (2Sa 5:7, 9). Job 39:28 gives us a good word picture of the meaning of this word describing the home of the eagle "On the cliff he dwells and lodges, Upon the rocky crag, an inaccessible place (mesudah)."

John Hartley adds "Apparently related to mešād which means "mountain-height" or "summit"; then "fortress, castle" (Arabic mašādun) so Masada, the fortress-palace plateau of Herod near the Dead Sea. In the rocky crag the eagle makes his stronghold (Job 39:28). But man erects his fortress out of stone or brick to protect himself from external dangers. Nevertheless with great strategy a stronghold may be taken; e.g. David captured the stronghold of Zion (2 Samuel 5:7). For the believer, especially David, God himself was the stronghold in whom he trusted throughout his trials (Psalm 18:2 [H 3]; Psalm 91:2)." (online TWOT)

Gilbrant - Related to the more common masculine noun, mātsōdh "net," "snare," this feminine noun is derived from the verb tsōdh, "to hunt." It is used figuratively to depict the judgment of the Lord in Ezekiel (Ezek 12:13; 17:20). The word is also translated "prey," i.e., that which has been taken by the net. In ch. 13, the Lord brings a strong rebuke through Ezekiel to the false prophets of Israel. Ezek 13:20 says, "I am against your pillows, wherewith you there hunt the souls to make them fly." The promise follows, "They will no longer fall prey to your power. Then you will know that I am the Lord" (Ezek 13:21NIV). (Complete Biblical Library)

GOD'S MAN GOD GIVES DAVID ADVICE

The prophet Gad said to David, "Do not stay in the stronghold; depart, and go into the land of Judah." - In 2Sa 24:11 Gad is call "David's seer" and probably functioned as David's prophet.

Roe: How will David ever learn to trust God with all his heart, to be a man after God's own heart, if he is safe in his stronghold at Adullam where his safety is tied to a physical relationship of hiding in a cave with his 400 men instead of a spiritual one of simply trusting God in time of danger? So, God deliberately sends him back into Judah where there is risk. The Christian life is a life of risk taking. It is called "faith." Faith is when you step out and act like you believe that what God says is true, even when you do not see how it is ever going to work out. So, David is called to go back into Judah and become a man of faith.

John Davis - In this hour of flight and confusion, David was approached by the prophet Gad, who must have been a welcome sight.

It is entirely possible that Samuel had sent this prophet to join David and to give him spiritual counsel. This prophet had a long career with David (2 Sam. 24:11, 19), and along with Nathan, the prophet, was one of the compilers of David's biography (1Ch 29:29). (Borrow The Birth of a Kingdom : Studies in I-II Samuel and I Kings 1-11)

Winter asks the question, "Who was the prophet Gad? The prophet had probably come to David from Samuel's school of the prophets, but whether he remained with David from that time forward to assist him with his counsel in his undertakings cannot be determined. In the last year of David's reign, he announced to him the punishment which would fall upon him from God on account of his sin in numbering the people; and he also wrote the acts of David (1 Chron. 29:29)."

So David departed and went into the forest of Hereth - See #9 on map for Hereth's possible location northwest of Hebron on the edge of the mountain district.. Gad spoke for God and to obey Gad was to obey Gad.

SAUL RECEIVES REPORT OF A "DAVID SPOTTING"

Then Saul heard that David and the men who were with him had been discovered - Saul surely has spies throughout the land and here he receives a report of a David spotting.

Now Saul was sitting in Gibeah, under the tamarisk tree on the height with his spear in his hand, and all his servants were standing around him - Think about this picture of Saul. Relaxing but NOT! It would be difficult to relax with a spear in your hand (not just by his side). This man is insecure, paranoid and worried.

Brian Bell - When you can't challenge your men to a holy cause, you resort to: Worry(6); Bribery(7); Sympathy(8); Spying(9); even Murder(11-19) just to let people know you're in charge! Worry is like a rocking chair, it gives you something to do, but doesn't get you anywhere. (1) Worry pulls tomorrow's cloud over today's sunshine. (2) Worry is wasting today's time, to clutter up tomorrow's opportunities, with yesterday's troubles. (3) Worry often gives a small thing a big shadow. - Swedish proverb (4) God is a help in trouble. In worry...you're on your own! Illustration: There is a fable of an eagle which could outfly another, and the other didn't like it. The latter saw a sportsman one day, and said to him: "I wish you would bring down that eagle." The sportsman replied that he would if he only had some feathers to put into the arrow. So the eagle pulled 1 out of his wing. The arrow was shot, but didn't quite reach the rival eagle; it was flying too high. The envious eagle pulled out more feathers, and kept pulling them out until he lost so many that he couldn't fly, and then the sportsman turned around and killed him. The moral lesson: If you are jealous, the only man you can hurt is yourself!

SAUL PLAYING POLITICS WITH THE PEOPLE

Saul said to his servants who stood around him, "Hear now, O Benjaminites! Will the son of Jesse also give to all of you fields and vineyards?" - Saul doesn't even use David's name showing his disdain.

MacArthur - Saul asked those of his own tribe whether associating themselves with David would provide for them more possessions and privileges than they already had from Saul.

Will he make you all commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds - What is Saul doing? In essence he is "bribing" them.

Wiersbe - Contrast Saul's approach to leadership. He could not challenge his men to a holy cause, so he tried to bribe them (v. 7) and play on their sympathy (v. 8). He depended on spies like Doeg, and he was not afraid to murder innocent priests just to let people know who was in charge. Saul was unwilling to kill the wicked Amalekites, but he murdered God's priests. Saul was fighting a losing battle, and he was desperate. (Borrow With the Word)

Brian Bell - Bribery (7) - You Benjaminites!...speaking to his high ranking officials. a) Saul reminded the men he was king & therefore the only one who could reward them for their faithful service. b) David attracted men who were willing to risk their lives for him, but Saul had to use bribery & fear to keep his forces together.

SAUL'S PARANOID PITY PARTY

For all of you have conspired against me so that there is no one who discloses to me when my son makes a covenant with the son of Jesse, And there is none of you who is sorry for me - Saul blames all of his servants for conspiring against him! In addition Saul is having a pity party, which describes an instance of feeling sorry for oneself or seeking pity from other people. He is singing the old song "It's my party, and I'll cry if I want to...".

Deffinbaugh: comments that "the conspiracy theory goes even further. Not only does Saul accuse Jonathan and David of conspiring against him, he also accuses his servants -- all of them! Saul is surrounded by his servants as he sits under the tamarisk tree near his home in Gibeah (verse 6). He begins by reminding his servants about the nature of politics and the spoils of political victory and power. As a reward for their loyalty to Saul, these Benjamites have been given property and positions of authority as political spoils. Do they think that if David becomes king they will enjoy the same spoils? They most certainly will not. And so Saul reminds his servants that they owe him -- big time. And now he wants a payback -- by having them inform him of David's whereabouts. Saul tells his servants that by keeping silent about David and withholding any information about him and his whereabouts, they are joining David in his conspiracy against Saul. D (Saul Loses His Grip)

Or discloses to me that my son has stirred up my servant against me to lie in ambush, as it is this day- This is a paranoid delusion as Jonathan had not stirred David to ambush his own father. As we see in the following chapters, the last thing in David's heart is to seek revenge against Saul or to seek to do him harm.

SAUL GATHERS THE PRIESTS FROM NOB

Then the king sent someone to summon Ahimelech the priest, the son of Ahitub, and all his father's household, the priests who were in Nob; and all of them came to the king - There is no record of Ahimelech's reaction but this is when he should have truly been trembling!

Anderson proposes that "It is so sad to see all of this because if David had stayed with Samuel at Ramah, he would have still had the divine protection and never gotten the priest Ahimelech involved in the situation."

Ahitub - The brother of Ichabod and son of Phinehas the son of Eli (1 Sam 14:3; 22:9,11,12,20), According to 1 Ch 24 he and his line were descended from Aaron through Ithamar. The record implies that he was born while his father and grandfather were priests at Shiloh, and it says that he was the father and grandfather of priests; but it is silent as to his own exercise of the priestly office. We have no information concerning the office from the time when the Philistines captured the ark till Saul became king.

Ahimelech - High priest of the Jews and the son of Ahitub (1 Sam. 22:11) and father of Abiathar (1Sa 22:20); he was probably the same as Ahijah (which see). He was a descendant of the line of Ithamar through Eli (1Ch 24:3, 6; Josephus Ant. 5.11.5; 8.1.3). When David fled from Saul (about 1010 B.C.) he went to Nob, where the Tabernacle then was. His unexpected appearance alarmed Ahimelech, whose anxious inquiry was answered by David's falsehood, "The king has commissioned me with a matter" (1Sa 21:2). Under this pretext Ahimelech was induced to give him bread and the sword of Goliath (1Sa 21:3-9). A servant of Saul, Doeg, an Edomite, witnessed the transaction, and informed King Saul, who immediately sent for Ahimelech and the other priests then at Nob, and charged them with treason. But they declared their ignorance of any hostile designs on the part of David. This, however, availed them nothing, for the king ordered his guards to slay them. Upon their refusing to do so he commanded Doeg, who slew the priests, eighty-five in number. He then marched to Nob and put to the sword everything it contained (1Sa 22:9-20). The only priest that escaped was Abiathar, Ahimelech's son, who fled to David, and who afterward became high priest (1Sa 23:6; 30:7). The names in 2Sa 8:17 and 1Ch 24:6 are commonly regarded as having been transposed by a copyist. (Borrow The New Unger's Bible Dictionary)

Figuratively of Jacob's soul bound with Benjamin (Ge. 44:30); of Jonathan's soul bound to David's (1Sa 18:1); of forming a conspiracy (translated conspired 19x, conspirators 2x) or an alliance against someone (1Ki. 15:27; 1Ki 16:20; 2Ki. 9:14). AHIMELECH PLEADS HIS INNOCENCE

Did I just begin to inquire of God for him today? Far be it from me!- NLT = "This was certainly not the first time I had consulted God for him!"

Here Ahimelech is caught in the cross fire. He is being blamed unjustly for something that he did not know. David had lied to him that he was going on a secret mission for the king, and so Ahimelech acted accordingly.

TSK - He seems to intimate, that his enquiring now for David was no new thing, having often done so before, without ever being

SAUL PRONOUNCES THE DEATH SENTENCE

But - A tragic term of contrast. Ahimelech's plea of innocence is dismissed without any consideration by evil Saul.

Guilt by association! Saul is totally unwilling to listen to reason, and he has no scruples with regard to the sacred. He has lost all sense of holy things. He is demonstrating that he himself is wholly unholy. Are these the actions of a saved individual?

SAUL'S SERVANTS DISOBEY TWO CLEAR COMMANDS

And the king said to the guards who were attending him, 'Turn around and put the priests of the LORD (Jehovah - Yahweh) to death, because their hand also is with David and because they knew that he was fleeing and did not reveal it to me.' - Saul does not just say slay the priests but has the godless audacity to add 'of the LORD!' Saul orders the execution of the priests based on the false supposition that they have sided with David. His second reason is also a false assumption for the priests did not know David was fleeing from Saul.

But the servants of the king were not willing to put forth their hands to attack the priests of the LORD- The servants apparently still have some holy fear of the LORD, so refuse to obey Saul. Frankly, they did so at the risk of their lives, for Saul could have easily have them slain claiming insubordination!

Anderson - Saul is acting just like HITLER here in barking out signals that involve the death of many precious people. Ahimelech was not conscious of any crime since David had come to him with a false pretext. And probably knowing little of what had transpired at the court, he answered calmly and worthily. In his consciousness of innocence he prayed that no guilt be laid to the charge of himself or the priests. That they were under suspicion is manifest from their being summoned before the king.

Winter does not mince words commenting that "Nothing is holy to a man who has sold his soul to Satan. Most men would stop short of killing God's anointed people. When Saul ordered his men to slay the priests, there was none at first to do his infamous will. Finally, one who was a stranger to the commonwealth of Israel, and evidently a mercenary in Saul's army, fulfilled the mad king's order. It is hard to imagine anyone falling lower than Saul fell as he slew the priests. But when man sells his soul to Satan, he falls to unbelievable depths."

SAUL CHARGES DOEG TO DESTROY THE PRIESTS

Then the king said to Doeg, "You turn around and attack the priests."

And Doeg the Edomite turned around and attacked the priests, and he killed that day eighty-five men who wore the linen ephod (epod) - This holy bloodbath is a horrible stain on Saul's reign demonstrating that he has lost all sense of right and wrong, blatantly committing an unjust act. As recorded in the Greek translation the number killed was 305 which (if true) implies Doeg slew the priests and their wives and children! Perhaps this includes those in the city of Nob which Doeg exterminated.

Recall the curse from the man of God on Eli's posterity in 1Sa 2:31+ declaring "Behold, the days are coming when I will break your strength and the strength of your father's house so that there will not be an old man in your house" The one exception at this time was Abiathar, but even he was later "terminated" by King Solomon (1Ki 2:26-29).

TSK - The LXX. read, [τρια κοσιους και πεντε ανδρας,] "three hundred and five men;" and Josephus, "three hundred and eighty-five men." Probably the eighty-five were priests and the three hundred the families of the priests; three hundred and eighty-five being the whole population of Nob.

DOEG EXTERMINATES ENTIRE CITY OF NOB

And - This copulative conjunction links the preceding slaying by Doeg of the priests at Gibeah to the extermination of the entire city of Nob.

He (Doeg) struck Nob the city of the priests with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and infants; also oxen, donkeys, and sheep he struck with the edge of the sword - How tragic that Saul instructs an Edomite to utterly destroy an entire city, the very thing he was unwilling to do to the Amalekites! At this juncture it is very difficult to say that Saul was a saved soul! The larger number of 305 in the Septuagint rendering could include those killed in the city of Nob.

ABIATHAR ESCAPES & FLEES TO DAVID

But one son of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar ("the father is excellent"), escaped and fled after David - God is sovereign even over the Nob massacre and allows one priest to escape to David's stronghold. The term "high priest" is not actually used throughout the narrative concerning Abiathar, but it is clear that Abiathar and Zadok were in effect joint high priests when David brought the Ark to Jerusalem (1Ch 15:11f.). This situation continued through David's reign, as the references to the two men during Absalom's rebellion indicate (e.g., 2 Sam 15:24, 27, 29). Abiathar did not, however, give the same loyalty to Solomon, but associated himself with the cause of Adonijah, the eldest surviving son of David (1 Kings 1:7, 19, 25). When Adonijah was executed on suspicion of plotting a coup, Abiathar was banished by King Solomon from Jerusalem (1Ki 2:22–27) This terminated the joint priesthood of Zadok and Abiathar, as referred to in 1Ki 4:4, and fulfilled the prediction, made 150 years earlier, of the end of the priestly rule of the house of Eli (1Sa 2:31–35).

Winter points out, "Only one son of Ahimelech escaped, and his only refuge was with David. David assured the young priest that he would protect him as one of his own men. It was in this manner that David secured not only the services of Gad the prophet, but also the services of Abiathar the priest."

QUESTION - Who was Abiathar in the Bible?

ANSWER - Along with Zadok, Abiathar served as one of the chief priests during David's reign as king. Abiathar's name means "father of excellence" or "father of abundance" in Hebrew.

Abiathar was the son of Ahimelech, who served as a priest at Nob (1 Samuel 21:1; Mark 2:26) until he and the other priests were murdered by King Saul (1 Samuel 21:1–19). Being the only son of Ahimelech to escape the massacre at Nob, Abiathar fled to David and was promised protection by the future king (1 Samuel 21:20–23).

Because Abiathar served David and acted as priest for all of David's men in hiding, he was made high priest along with Zadok once David began his reign as king (1 Chronicles 15:11). This was a natural role for him to take on, as he had kept the ephod and administered the Urim and Thummin when David sought direction from the Lord (1 Samuel 23:6; 30:7).

When Absalom rebelled against his father and attempted to usurp the throne, Abiathar remained loyal to David. Abiathar was among those who fled the capital city with David (2 Samuel 15:24). Zadok and the Levites carried the ark of the covenant, "and Abiathar offered sacrifices until all the people had finished leaving the city" (2 Samuel 15:24). Although David admired the loyalty and faithfulness of the priests, he ordered them to return to the city with the ark. This proved helpful because they were then able to send word to David about Absalom's plans (2 Samuel 15:27–29; 17:15–16). David was restored to his throne and Abiathar to his priestly office.

Things changed as David's son Solomon took the throne. Abiathar was not loyal to the new king. Adonijah, another one of David's sons, put himself forward as king with the help of Joab (one of David's nephews) and Abiathar (1 Kings 1:5, 7). Once the threat from Adonijah was neutralized, King Solomon dealt with the conspirators. One of Solomon's actions was to remove Abiathar from the priestly office. This fulfilled the Lord's word of judgment over Eli and his descendants, which impacted Abiathar since he was related to Eli (1 Samuel 3:12–14; 1 Kings 2:27). It was only because of the priest's loyal service to David that Solomon did not kill him. Solomon told Abiathar, "Go back to your fields in Anathoth. You deserve to die, but I will not put you to death now, because you carried the ark of the Sovereign LORD before my father David and shared all my father's hardships" (1 Kings 2:26). Zadok replaced Abiathar as priest under Solomon (1 Kings 2:35).

Abiathar lived most of his life in faithful service to the Lord, but he did not finish well. Instead of siding with the rightful king of Israel (2 Samuel 7:12; 1 Kings 1:17), Abiathar assisted one of David's rebellious sons who desired to rule. He allowed earthly matters to become his focus, which cost him the priestly office. Like Abiathar, we can easily get caught up in worldly schemes and lose sight of God's plan. Rather than seeking our own way or chasing what seems politically expedient, we should seek to faithfully follow God. Then, when our time on earth is done, we can state with the apostle Paul, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, and I have remained faithful" (2 Timothy 4:7NLT). ABIATHAR'S REPORT OF THE TRAGEDY AT NOB

Safe Refuge 1 Samuel 22:21-23

In 1939 the Nazis began their program of Jewish extermination in Poland. In the midst of the destruction, Oskar Schindler, a most unlikely hero, opened his Emalia factory in Krakow, which produced enamel goods and munitions to supply the German front. As the Nazis began in earnest the removal of Jews to death camps, Schindler was able to rescue 1,300 Jewish men and women to work in his factory. By designating their skills as "essential" and paying off the local authorities, Schindler provided a haven that kept these refugees alive through the Holocaust.

David provided this kind of refuge for Abiathar, son of the high priest Ahimelech. After Saul discovered that the priests of the city of Nob had given assistance to David, he killed not only them but also all the men, women, children and even the animals of the city. Abiathar himself would have been killed if Saul could have found him. In return for his father's kindness, David offered Abiathar a place of refuge. With David and his army, Abiathar found safety.

Satan's purpose for the human race includes the destruction of every living being, regardless of their age or gender. Only those who find a place of refuge can hope to survive. Like Schindler, like David, God provides such a place (Ps. 91:1-2). It's in His Son, Jesus Christ. When we receive Him as our Savior, we are safe from the ravages of the evil one.

Are you safe in Christ? If so, give thanks to Him who provides such a refuge from the destruction brought by Satan. If not, trust Christ Jesus today and become secure in Him forever. In the midst of destruction, Jesus is a place of safety. (Courtesy of Back to the Bible)

I have brought about the death of every person in your father's household - David's lie to the priest, cost the lives of the priest and the entire town of Nob. David does not try to rationalize or deny but accepts his responsibility in the tragedy. In a word he is confessing. The man after God's own heart is returning to the highway of holiness after veering to the left and the right in his recent actions!

THOUGHT- All of us have veered off of the "highway of holiness," like David, but praise God that He did not discard David, but forgave his sins and enabled him to press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus. DAVID ASSURES ABIATHAR'S SAFETY

Stay with me; do not be afraid, for he who seeks my life seeks your life, for you are safe with me - David essentially assures Abiathar that Saul cannot get to him without going through David. Abiathar served as priest to David for the remainder of David's life (1Sa 23:6, 9; 1Sa 30:7; 2Sa 8:17).

Wiersbe - God in His providence gave David two great gifts: the ephod (1Sa 23:6) and a priest. He could always seek the will of the Lord as he planned his strategy. James Smith - THE INFALLIBLE SAFEGUARD

"Abide thou with me, fear not; for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life, but with me thou shalt be in safeguard" (1 Sam. 22:23). Observe that—

1. David is a type of Christ. Chosen of God and anointed for his work, but just now rejected and despised as a king.
2. With him implies suffering. "He that seeketh my life seeketh thy life." Identifying ourselves with the rejected Christ means suffering with Him; we have the same enemies to oppose. If any man live godly he must suffer.

3. With him implies safety. "With me thou shalt be in safeguard." I flee to Thee to hide me. God in Christ is our refuge. With Him we are in safeguard from the—

1. WRATH TO COME (1 Tim. 1:10). He is the shadow of a great rock. He bore our sins.

2. CURSE OF THE LAW. "He was made a curse for us." Now no condemnation.

3. POWER OF SIN. With Him, abiding in Him, sin shall not have dominion over you; by His indwelling Spirit He breaks the power of it.

4. FEAR OF MAN. With Him, in His love, all fear is cast out. If God be for us, who can be against us?

5. WORRIES OF LIFE. Abiding with Him, His peace will rule (garrison) the heart. "My God shall supply all your need." "Take no thought for your life," "with ME thou shalt be in safeguard."

6. DREAD OF DEATH. With Him we can shout "O death, where is thy sting? Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." Are you with Him? He invites you, "Come unto Me, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28).
